

Beer! We salute you!

It's no wonder we love beer so much; like an old friend it's been with us since the beginning. We drank it before we drank clean water, and we evolved it from its rudimentary beginning to the complex varieties of types and flavours we enjoy today. As Nicola Robinson remarked "If Britain was a living being, beer would be the blood that runs through its veins."

Today is National Beer Day. And good reason too. Beer is the third most consumed drink, after water and tea. Beer! We salute you! If there is any excuse to have a beer, it is of course today. Consider it your national duty! And whilst you seek out something delicious, we thought we would whet your appetite with some of the lip smacking, thirst quenching brews we can't wait for you to try at Thame Food Festival 2019.

Did you know?

Beer Day Britain is on June 15th and that is also the date Magna Carta was sealed in 1215. Article 35 of the great charter stated:

Let there be throughout our kingdom a single measure for wine and a single measure for ale and a single measure for corn, namely the London quarter.

Ale was so important in England in 1215 that it was mentioned in one of the most significant legal documents in history.
